To Whom It May Concern:

I am an Education Mentor at Montclair State University who assists and observes students completing their student teaching requirements. This past semester Sang Eun Patricia Lee was one of my students, who taught at the Hillside High School in Hillside, N.J. It was always a pleasure to observe her classes.

At each observation there were very well planned art projects for her classes to complete. They included students creating their own design for a logo on a famous product, and to paint an abstract self -portrait. She made good use of power point presentations and taught classes with students participating as was expected of them and with good behavior. Her classes were given unique lessons that gave high school students an opportunity to explore art in a manner that they have not been exposed to.

Sang Eun Patricia Lee performed very well as a student teacher, demonstrating the qualities to be a successful teacher. If any further information is needed I can be contacted at 973-785-3730.

Sincerely,

William C. Liess
